International Nurses Day: Nursing the World to Health Through Clinical Research 12th May 2020, Congress Centre London

Registration is now open for International Nurses Day: Nursing the World To Health Through Clinical Research. Featuring keynote speakers such as:

- Liz Reus, Swiss Tropical and Public Health Institute
- Tanya Ednan-Laperouse, Natasha Allergy Research Foundation

This event will bring together Clinical Research Nurses from across the world with an exciting programme of speakers, workshops and posters to enjoy at this free event on the 200th anniversary of the birth of Florence Nightingale. We will also be celebrating the announcement by The World Health Organisation, who have confirmed that 2020 is the official International Year of the Nurse and Midwife.

Poster abstracts submissions are invited from individuals or teams highlighting research examples of good practice, new ways of working or effective strategies which support recruitment into NIHR portfolio studies.
